Dirt:
The Movie

Monday, November 14th 6-8 PM
Robert Scott Small 235

Join us for a screening of "Dirt: The Movie" to learn more about the relationship of humans with dirt. Dirt is an often overlooked natural resource that has been abused and degraded through industrial agriculture and unchecked growth. Drought, climate change, and human conflict are all related to the way we have been treating dirt. A discussion after the movie will feature Todd LeVasseur, Visiting Instructor of Religious Studies and Seth Pritchard, Associate Professor of Biology. Refreshments will be provided.
